Ed serves as the firm Director of the Technology and Life Sciences Practice and the Institutional Investor Services Group. He previously served as Chair of SEC/Corporate Finance Group and a member of the Executive Committee of Moss Adams. Ed has over 40 years of public accounting experience including auditing, regulatory matters, and general business and management issues. His experience with SEC filings includes registration statements for initial public offerings, annual reports, and consultation on unusual transactions. Ed advises public and private companies on corporate finance alternatives including public equity offerings, private debt and equity offerings, business combinations, restructurings, MBOs, LBOs, option accounting, recapitalizations, venture capital transactions, and roll-up transactions. He has international experience in Europe, India, Asia, and Mexico.

Ed has served as chair of Washington's Securities Advisory Committee. Currently, he is a board member of the Washington Counsel of TechAmerica and financial advisor to the Board of the Benaroya Research Institute. In 2008, Ed served as chair of the Washington Biotechnology and Biomedical Association's Invest Northwest Investor and CEO Forum, and will again chair the event in 2009.
